Welcome

Welcome to the 19th annual Archivist's Awards Ceremony!

For this ceremony, we sent NARA executives to Fort Worth, Morrow, New York, Riverside, St. Louis, the William J. Clinton Presidential Library, the George H.W. Bush Presidential Library, and the George W. Bush Presidential Library to congratulate Archivist's Award winners in person.

Almost every day I receive comments praising the staff, so today we will give our customers a chance to sing your praises. You will be hearing directly from the people who benefit from the great work that you do. We will have videos interspersed throughout the ceremony.

This ceremony is important to me. I look forward to it each year. It gives me the opportunity to highlight your achievements and more importantly, the chance to say thank you. Incredible work happens at this agency every single day. And I am so proud of what you do each and every day.

This past year, we've released more than 34,000 documents from the John F. Kennedy Assassination Collection, remediated 23,000 records for mold, helped veterans by eliminating a nearly 300,000 records backlog, reviewed 860,000 pages of records and digitized in-house 51,000 pages related to Judge Brett Kavanaugh's work, and supported one another during the partial Government shutdown. And these are just a few examples! You will hear more about these incredible accomplishments as the ceremony continues.

We had 55 nominations for awards this year. Today, we recognize our colleagues who dedicate their time and talents to make the National Archives a great place to work. We recognize colleagues who went above and beyond expectations and succeeded in ways not intended.

Before we get started on this year's awards, I would like to take a moment to remember our colleagues who passed away this past year: Cindy Belcastro, Leanne Townsend-Cerame, and Timothy Graves. Let's acknowledge their lasting contributions to the work of the National Archives.
